Community Research Planning Session with FracTracker Alliance

Kyle Ferrar MPH, Western Program Director:

Kyle manages work in the west coast region, where most of the current projects focus on extraction activities in California and Colorado. He is constantly managing relationships and collaborating with allies, including community groups, other researchers, and both local and national advocacy groups related to oil and gas development.

This is an opportunity for the leaders of regional grassroots groups to have a strategy Session, to identify and develop new research projects and to outline how FracTracker can continue to support our efforts!

(There will be a second community meeting Thursday Aug. 24)
